Program Slated Thursday

Ted Is Scheduled For Annual CHS Music Festival

TED LEWIS

Ted Lewis, Circleville's man of renown, will add a highlight to Thursday's annual Circleville High School Spring Music Festival.

Ted is scheduled to appear at the festival as a guest of the City Board of Education and the school administration. According to Superintendent Fritz Jacobs, the famed musician will not perform, but will briefly address the audience.

The festival, under the direction of CHS music instructor Truman Eberly, will get underway at 8 p. m. in the school gymnasium on E. Mill St. A large crowd is anticipated, especially in view of the appearance of Ted Lewis.

Eberly said the public is invited free to the 1 1/2-hour program of varied music. The annual event culminates the year's musical activity at CHS.

ALTHOUGH there is no admission charge, Eberly said a free will offering will be taken.

A comprehensive program is on tap, with several musical groups scheduled to participate. Catherine Griner will serve as piano accompanist.

The program will include several selections by the High School Choir. The popular Girls' Triple Trio will present two numbers.

Scheduled to present a phase of the program will be the Junior Band. The agenda for these musicians will include a selection featuring the entire trumpet section and two more that will be presented under the student direction of Glen Plum and Harriett Jones.

Additional entertainment lists Larry Eccard, senior head drummer, in a snare drum solo. This will be followed by a percussion ensemble selection, featuring Eccard, Mike Lortz and Harriett Jones.

SE OHIO OK'S APPALACHIA

Appalachian Plan Polished By President

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Johnson worked today on a formal appeal to Congress for his billion-dollar plan of federal help to combat poverty in Appalachia.

The bill to carry out the plan is ready and Johnson hoped to send Congress a message or letter later today enclosing the measure and appealing for its passage. But White House press secretary George Reedy said there was a possibility of delay until Tuesday.

"It is must legislation," Johnson said in unveiling the omnibus bill at a news conference Saturday. He said that the $220 million he is asking for the next fiscal year will not affect the budget because it will be drawn from contingency funds.

Johnson has made Appalachia—a nine-state area that extends from the mountains of western Pennsylvania southward to Georgia and Alabama—a special battleground in his "war on poverty."

He made a rapid and dramatic sweep through three of the states Friday. So convinced did he become of the need for immediate action, he told reporters Saturday afternoon, he "worked through the night and the morning with other officials" to prepare the legislation.

The program is the product of a special commission headed by Undersecretary of Commerce Franklin D. Roosevelt Jr.

Here's how the nearly $1 billion would be carved up:

—$840 million to build a 2,150-mile highway system.

—$35.8 million for stepping up construction of water resources facilities.

—$10 million to build new sewer and water systems.

—$22 million in federal grants for pasture improvement.

—$6.7 million in technical assistance for timber management marketing and manufacture.

—$3 million for expanded coal research.

—$71 million earmarked for the antipoverty program headed by Sargent Shriver.

Honor Paid Gen. Grant

GEORGETOWN, Ohio (AP)—Georgetown and Brown County paid a centennial tribute today to the memory of President and Gen. U.S. Grant who lived here during his boyhood.

Gen. Grant was born 142 years ago today in Point Pleasant in Clermont County but moved here with his parents when he was only two years old. He remained here until he entered the U.S. Military Academy.

This year also is the centennial anniversary of his taking command of the Union forces, a step that led to the final year of the Civil War and the surrender of Confederate Gen. Robert E. Lee in April 1865.

Hundreds came here Sunday despite rain to attend a memorial program and to view dozens of historical exhibits concerning Grant's life, his career and the Civil War.

As lawyers wrangled over whether a defense psychiatrist could read a prepared report, Judge Brown said:

"It would be a waste of time to read that because I'm going to overrule your motion."

Brown's statement came minutes after Ruby, extremely pale and obviously agitated, returned to the courtroom where he was convicted March 14 in the killing of accused presidential assassin Lee Harvey Oswald.

Dr. Louis Jolyon West, the defense psychiatrist, said in advance that Ruby was "preoccupied with delusions of persecution of Jews" and "obviously psychotic."

West examined Ruby after the prisoner bled his nearly bald head against a cell wall Sunday in what Sheriff Bill Decker said was "a deliberate act."

Three Problems Point to Special Session of State's Legislature

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Congressional redistricting, highway funds and higher pay for teachers are among items which Gov. James A. Rhodes wants the general assembly to consider at its next session.

The planning session was interpreted as further indication that the governor may call a special session of the legislature after the May 5 primary. The possibility has been mentioned frequently in recent weeks.

These proposals were some of the items drawn up for the legislature's consideration by Rhodes and his assistants at a meeting over the week-end.

Some of the proposals are the governor's and others are suggestions from citizens, according to John M. McElroy, assistant to the governor.

The congressional redistricting proposal stems from a recent U.S. Supreme Court ruling requiring congressional districts be nearly as equal in population as possible.

McElroy said Sunday that political leaders of both parties agree that Ohio will have to redistrict soon or invite a court order that all of its congressmen be elected at large.

Rhodes also favors changes in the School Foundation law, McElroy said, which will insure higher rates of pay for school teachers and proposals for strengthening the Teachers Retirement System.

McElroy said Rhodes is less enthusiastic about extended service under the School Foundation law and believes that extended service programs should be second to the needs of teachers in any competition for tax money.

In connection with highway funds, McElroy said a special session would have to be called if the $500 million highway bond issue is approved at the May 5 primary election to enact legislation to put the funds from the bond issue to use.

McElroy said other proposals favored by Rhodes are:

—Liberalizing Ohio's recently enacted program of Aid to Dependent Children of the Unemployed (ADCU).

—Additional oil and gas regulations to encourage pooling of

Services Set For Young Traffic Victim

Funeral services for 8-year-old William Richard Phillips, killed Saturday when he was struck by a car, will be 2 p. m. tomorrow at the Five Points Methodist Church.

1 DEAD IN 1964

The son of Mr. and Mrs. Gene Phillips of Five Points, the youth is the first traffic fatality of the year in Pickaway County. He was pronounced dead on arrival at Berger Hospital.

According to Pickaway County Deputy Sheriff Gene Kerns, the youngster darted from between two parked cars directly into the path of a car driven by Harry D. Rhodes, 77, Springfield. The lad was on his way to a little league baseball practice at the Monroe Twp. School. The accident occurred in Five Points.

The driver of the car told Deputy Kerns he could not stop in time to avoid striking the youth. No citation was issued.

Besides his parents, the youth is survived by his paternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Jay Phillips of Mt. Sterling and his maternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Dean of Sabina and aunts and uncles.

Burial will be in the Darbyville Cemetery under direction of the Snyder Funeral Home of Mt. Sterling.

Friends may call at the residence in Five Points until the time of services.

Couple Excommunicated In Episcopal Moral Fuss

IONIA, Mich. (AP)—An Ionia couple was excommunicated Sunday after charging their Episcopal priest with harboring "archaic beliefs and moral knowledge" in his criticism of a dance in a high school production of the musical "Damn Yankees."

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Clore were stripped of their membership in the Ionia Episcopal church by the Rev. Raymond Bierlein, who said he acted because of a letter written by the Clores published Friday in the Ionia Daily Sentinel-Standard.

"We can no longer restrain our feelings concerning the objections voiced by our rector to the dancing in the current high school musical play," the letter said in part.

Greeks Pose New Threat On Cyprus

NICOSIA, Cyprus (AP)—A hundred Greek Cypriot irregulars armed with mortars and machineguns threatened the embattled village of Ayio Thodoros today as U.N. officials sought to remove the village's 800 Turkish Cypriots.

New fighting flared this morning in the mixed Greek-Turkish village 30 miles south of Nicosia. U.N. troops tried to set up a cease-fire.

A showdown also appeared to be shaping up for control of strategic Kyrenia Pass, where Greek Cypriot forces pinned down Turkish defenders dug in around medieval St. Hillarion Castle.

Greek Cypriots felt out Turkish positions with mortar, machine-gun and rifle fire. They denied, however, that they were trying to hit the castle, which the Turkish Cypriots use as their stronghold in controlling the pass along the Kyrenia-Nicosia road.

The Turks, caught by surprise when the attack opened Saturday, cannot lose much more ground without surrendering control of the pass. Greek Cypriot forces have advanced to within a mile of this highway between the capital and the north coast.

Pennsy Primary Write-in Studied

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—National Republican leaders and political observers will focus their attention on Tuesday's Pennsylvania primary to see how big a write-in Gov. William W. Scranton gets for the Republican presidential nomination.

Scranton has not encouraged the write-in drive.

There were no presidential candidates on the ballots, but state Republican leaders hope a strong write-in for the wealthy, 46-year-old industrialist will ignite a draft movement for him.

Scranton, who had to be persuaded to run for governor two years ago, has often said he is not a candidate, that he does not want the nomination and would take it only in the event of a sincere and unengineered draft.

Floods Face Fabled City

Landslide Menaces Mongol Samarkand

MOSCOW (AP)—Soviet engineers have begun blasting in an attempt to drain off flood waters threatening the fabled Mongol capital of Samarkand and villages along the Zeravshan River blocked by a huge landslide.

The Communist party newspaper Pravda said engineers sent to the edge of the Pamir Mountains in Southwest Asia Sunday night began blasting a canal through the slide, which was said to be as high as an 80-story building and 2,000 feet wide.

Pravda said 625 million cubic feet of water have built up behind the slide, which on Friday formed a huge natural dam. It said the water level behind the dam rose more than 105 feet in 50 hours.

The Soviet news agency Tass said an attempt would be made to divert the blocked, fast-rising river and remove the threat to Samarkand, an ancient city of blue-tiled old mosques and new industries. It is 1,700 miles southeast of Moscow, near the juncture of the Soviet Union, Red China and Afghanistan.

Tass said the landslide occurred Friday when the Darnvorz Mountain "cracked as a result of earth tremors" and was "cut in two by water." The huge mass of earth and rock fell into the river, swollen by a month of heavy rains, and the slide formed a natural dam.

A lake is forming 100 miles upstream from Samarkand, a city of 215,000 persons, but the earth dam threatens to break and unleash a raging torrent.

"This catastrophe is fraught with the danger of an unprecedented flood in the whole of the Zeravshan Valley," said Tass.

Methodist Chiefs Eye Segregation

PITTSBURGH (AP)—The 1964 General Conference of the Methodist Church opens formal business sessions today confronted with a challenge to remove speedily any mark of segregation among its 13 million members.

Bishop Gerald Kennedy of Los Angeles told delegates "this general conference should insist upon the removal of any mark of racial segregation and we should do it without wasting time."

High on the conference docket is abolition of the church's Central Jurisdiction, embracing some 375,000 Negroes in the United States. The jurisdiction is one of six. The others are geographical.

U.S. Lieutenant Killed In Viet Nam Action

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP)—American Army Lt. Ronald Hines was killed near the southern tip of South Viet Nam Sunday as government troops tracked Communist guerrillas near embattled Kien Long.

Hines was the 131st American to die in action in Viet Nam and the 35th to fall this year, military spokesmen said.

His wife, Harriet, lives at Middletown, N.J., and his parents, Mr. and Mrs. James B. Hines, at Amarillo, Tex.

Rhodes Fails To Sell Area On His Plan

ATHENS, Ohio (AP)—Leaders of southeastern Ohio counties agreed unanimously today to put Ohio in the federal Appalachia program.

The decision, at a meeting of some 400 representatives from 18 counties, followed an assertion by Rep. Wayne Hays, D-Ohio, that Ohio could not share in federal funds without joining the program.

Gov. James A. Rhodes said the decision will not mean abandonment of a separate state development program for the Ohio Valley region.

"We will supplement the Appalachia program," Rhodes said after the decision reached in a closed meeting of the Ohio Valley Research and Development Council.

Rhodes appointed the seven-man council and directed committees on highways, recreation and other program segments to choose between the state and federal plans.

Hays told the highway committee that if Ohio expected federal funds for a superhighway between Bridgeport and Cincinnati without joining the federal program "you are dreaming." He indicated that the same status applied to other portions of the federally-financed plan.

Earlier Rhodes has portrayed his go-it-alone program as more permanent than the federal plan.

He had asserted that "after a tour of all counties, I found no one 'out front' saying we should be a part of the Appalachia plan."

Members of the council named by Rhodes to make the determination are Ohio University's president, Vernon R. Alden; President Alphonse Christensen, Rio Grande College; President Frank Duddy, Marietta College; Kenner Bush, assistant publisher of the Athens Messenger;

B. B. Mills, Ironton Tribune publisher; James Strafford of Portsmouth, businessman; and E. E. Davis of Oak Hill, president of the Southeastern Ohio Regional Conference.

Fifteen state representatives and senators attended the session.

Congressmen Oliver Bolton of Mentor and Homer Abele of McArthur also were present.

More than a score of Cabinet members, Department of Development and other state officials also attended.

The state program envisions industrial expansion, attraction of tourists and retired citizens, education and research, and activities promoted by community improvement corporations.

Backbone of the program would be a superhighway be-

Ross County Probes River Bank Mystery

CHILLICOTHE, Ohio (AP)—A mystery that began with discovery of a pile of clothes on a creek bank remained unsolved Monday. It concerns the whereabouts of a man believed to be Joseph Wayne Norris, 20.

Sheriff Fred Heinzelman said a fisherman noticed the clothes beside Paint Creek, not far from Bainbridge in Ross County, Sunday. When he returned several hours later, noticed the clothes still there and footprints leading to the water, he summoned deputies.

The sheriff said a wallet in the clothes contained $25 and cards identifying the owner as Joseph Wayne Norris, 20, of the Parker Hotel, Hillsboro (Highland County). His car was found nearby.

But a search on both sides of the creek, and an underwater check by SCUBA diver deputies, failed to produce any indication of Norris' whereabouts, the sheriff said. The investigation is continuing.

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The Buckeye State chalked up a total of 17 deaths last weekend from highway accidents.

Bridge, Paving Job Planned In Village of New Holland

A resolution proposing cooperative efforts to construct a bridge replacement in New Holland was adopted today by the County Board of Commissioners.

The agreement, with the State Department of Highways, is part of a larger plan calling for a paving project along Route 22 in New Holland. The proposed new bridge will replace the one on Route 22 that spans Mud Run.

The resolution calls for the county to assume 25 per cent of the bridge cost. The state's present estimate for replacement is $48,000.

Based on the estimate, the county's share of the cost would be $12,000. The bridge proposal received unanimous Commissioner approval.

ACCORDING to the state Highway Department, the New Holland project is programmed for 1965. There were indications bids for the job may be sold this summer.

The bridge and repaving jobs will be confined to the Pickaway County portion of New Holland, according to County Engineer Henry McCrady. The village is located on the Pickaway-Fayette County line.

The bridge and repaving work, considered as one project, may run in the neighborhood of $300,000. According to present plans, the village would be required to provide only a small portion of the paving cost.

U.S. Planning New 50-Ton Space Load

SUNNYVALE, Calif. (AP) — Unprecedented 100,000 - pound payloads soon can be hauled into orbit by mass-produced solid rocket motors locked into clusters, says an aerospace expert.

Such loads would be seven times greater than the heaviest the Russians have been known to orbit.

Cylinders of rocket power stacked like tomato cans will be able to lift the 50 tons of useful cargo within three years, Barnett R. Adelman, president of United Technology Center, a division of United Aircraft Corp., predicts.

The center is already producing segmented rockets for the Titan III-C, which the Air Force expects to be a work-horse booster for the next decade of space launching.

A pair of five-segment motors on the Titan III-C will provide more than two million pounds of lift-off thrust. The vehicle is scheduled for its first flight tests in 1965.

Each steel-jacketed segment of the first-stage booster is 10 feet in diameter and weighs about 50 tons when filled with rubbery fuel.

Clustering rockets isn't a new idea. Last year the center tested a cluster of 24 smaller solid-fuel segments, four six-motor stacks. Anchored to the test pad, it produced 140,000 pounds of thrust during a 14-second burning time.

Route 1 Woman Injured in Mishap

Mary Dumm, Route 1, a passenger in a car driven by her husband, Woodrow Dumm, was referred to a doctor Saturday for treatment of a neck injury sustained in an accident 6:43 p. m. Saturday just south of Route 56 on the Kingston Pike.

Cited by Pickaway County Sheriff's department for failure to maintain an assured cleared distance ahead was Martha M. Garrett, 31, of 371 Ray Ave. She waived a court hearing, paying a fine of $35 plus costs.

Mrs. Garrett was driving a car that struck the Dumm vehicle in the rear, according to Deputies William Pontious and Gene Kerns.

tween Bridgeport in Belmont County and Cincinnati, to make the entire region accessible.

Officials said $264 million has been programmed for 315 miles of Interstate and primary highways to open the area to industry and recreation.

Rhodes said highway construction depends on federal aid. State funds would come from the $500 million bond issue on which Ohioans will vote in the May 5 primary.

Urging approval of the bond issue, Rhodes reminded listeners that "many of the good highways we are enjoying today came from the $500 million bond issue of 1953."

He said the new bond issue would be financed the same way without new taxes.

In advance of the general meeting, Athens Community Improvement Corp. officials entertained the governor and Cabinet members at a breakfast.

George Drach, president of the Athens Business Association, presided at the breakfast session. He outlined local projects under construction. Drach is the son-in-law of Senate Majority Leader C. Stanley Mechem of Nelsonville.

Alden told the governor and his aides that several companies have looked at sites near the university without finding any to their liking. But he expressed belief that development of highways and an industrial park would attract them.

The Ohio University president has been named by President Johnson to set up jobs corps for unemployed American youths in national administration's "war on poverty."

Citing increased enrollments, Alden said: "We are in a crisis situation, but it involves great opportunity."

He said the university expects to enroll 12,500 students next year and have about 5,500 others in branches.

He expressed hope for future achievement from the College of Business Administration and an Institute for Regional Development here. He also envisioned "a great college of engineering."

"We hope, through the colleges in southeastern Ohio, that we can build a new economic base," Alden said.

Rhodes previously urged against Ohio participation in the Appalachia program — which embraces West Virginia and parts of eight other states.

Development Director George Wilson said the Ohio River forms a natural barrier to Ohio participation in the federal plan. He added that median income for families in most counties of the Southeastern Ohio Region is $4,000 a year.

"This indicates a different order of economic condition than that representative of the other areas within Appalachia," he asserted.

Rhodes observed that his administration would not stand in the way of Ohio participation in the federal plan if leaders prefer it.

The governor flew here from Columbus with a dozen aides and newsmen in the state plane through a rainstorm.

Counties in the Ohio Valley region include Adams, Athens, Belmont, Brown, Gallia, Highland, Meigs, Hocking, Jackson, Lawrence, Monroe, Morgan, Noble, Perry, Pike, Scioto, Vinton and Washington.

The nomad Tuaregs of the central and southern Sahara Desert are known as "blue men". The name derives from the indigo dye of their clothes, which smudges off and stains their near-white skin.

Electrician Burned by Power Line

Pearl Johnson, 19, Canal Winchester, an employee of the Toole Electric Company of Ashville, suffered a severe electric shock Saturday morning atop an 80 foot light pole at Teays Valley High School.

He was taken to Doctor's Hospital, Columbus for treatment. Authorities listed his condition as "good". He sustained burns on the right arm and both legs.

Gene Kerns of the Pickaway County Sheriff's Department said witnesses told him Johnson was frozen to the power line until the circuit fuse was blown. Firemen of the Ashville Harrison Twp. Fire department rescued him from atop the pole.

Johnson believed he had shut off all the power on the lighting poles, according to Kerns. He apparently was unaware the power fed to the electrically operated football scoreboard was on the same pole, the deputy added.

Stock Mart Prices Dip

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market continued to decline early this afternoon in moderately active trading.

Losses of key stocks went from fractions to about a point. Prices, though mixed, showed a firm tendency on balance at the opening but demand was lacking and as the session wore on more minus signs appeared.

The trend was lower among steels, motors, rails, cigarettes, building materials, aerospace issues and nonferrous metals. Chemicals, drugs and oils were irregular.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was off .7 at 302.7 with industrials off .8, rails off .7 and utilities off .2.

The Dow Jones industrial average at noon was off 3.10 at 811.79.

'My Favorite Martian' Is Having a Great Year

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—This is Ray Walston's year—and about time!

The offbeat comedian-actor has been turning in fine, stylized performances on the stage and screen — "South Pacific," "Damn Yankees" — for several years without making an appreciable impact on the public. This television season he finally hit big with "My Favorite Martian."

Now he has inherited a leading role in "Kiss Me, Stupid" from heart-stricken Peter Sellers. There can be no doubt he is enjoying his surfeit of riches.

"I've made a lot of pictures in pretty good roles and nothing happened," he remarked. "Now maybe it will."

"There are two versions of how it happened," said Walston. "I read in the trade papers on the Tuesday after Sellers' illness that Danny Kaye and Tony Randall were being considered as replacements.

"That started me thinking. Randall had beaten me out of a couple of parts I wanted to play. Why couldn't I do the role? So I placed a call to my agents and told them to talk to Billy Wilder about it.

"The other story is that even before my agents could get through to Wilder, he was placing a call to them to ask about my availability."

It was learned later that both stories were correct. The thought of Walston's casting apparently occurred to him and to Wilder at the same time.

The actor went to see the producer-director-writer and reminded him of a remark he made during the filming of "The Apartment." "You told me one day you would write me a good part," Walston said.

"This is a great part," Wilder corrected.

But Walston still didn't have the job. He took the script home and called Wilder the next day.

"I told him it was a very good script," said Walston. "What else could I say? That it was the best script I had ever read? I couldn't say that to Billy Wilder. I'd sound like an idiot from Hicksville."

Walston, a confirmed worrier, noted that Wilder sounded chilly over the phone, and he feared he had blown the job. His fears were unfounded. He finished the season's shooting of "My Favorite Martian" on a Thursday and began "Kiss Me, Stupid" the next Monday.

Rail Strike Menace Is Erased

NEW YORK (AP)—A menacing cloud that lurked on the economy's horizon for 4½ years was erased during the past week by the ending of a railroad strike threat.

Under prodding from President Johnson, rail management and union officials compromised a stubborn disagreement over work rules. Congress reluctantly intervened last summer in a phase of the dispute involving locomotive firemen, decreeing arbitration, but other aspects of the controversy festered on.

Laid aside finally was the possibility of a coast-to-coast rail tie-up that the President said would have idled six million workers, cut back the Gross National Product 13 per cent and forced a general price rise.

The economy, in the 38th month of the longest postwar upswing, is likely to have reeled downhill.

A second fruit of the settlement was a recognition that even extremely bitter conflicts involving abolition of many jobs can be made to yield to collective bargaining.

Adjustment of the dispute appeared to be on grounds a little closer to the original union position than management's.

By one reckoning, the railroads will gradually realize about $250 million a year of the $600-million reduction they sought in payment made for services they said were unneeded or not rendered.

On the other hand, the overall settlement eventually will cost the unions elimination of 30,000 or more jobs provided under existing rules. About 660,000 men are employed on major railroads.

Overshadowed by the dramatic White House announcement of the rail accord was a swelling stream of handsome reports by businesses on first-quarter profits; a 10 per cent rise in first-quarter dividend payments, and signs of continued strength in the vital auto and steel industries.

Humming auto assembly lines brought production for the year so far to just short of 2.8 million units, about 225,000 ahead of the comparable 1963 period. Sales moved apace. Industry officials looked ahead optimistically.

The gain of third-ranking Republic Steel Corp., first big steel producer to check in with its figures, was a resounding 73 per cent over a mediocre 1963 first quarter. Republic cleared $15.8 million.

Other glowing reports came from Union Carbide, Socony Mobil, Reynolds Metals, Inland Steel, International Nickel, the Pennsylvania Railroad, American Cyanamid, National Steel, Marathon Oil and a host of other large corporations. A number hit record earnings levels.

Rabbi's Disavowal of Tale About Moses Jolts Jewry

LONDON (AP) — Orthodox Jewry in Britain was rocked today by a dispute over a 43-year-old rabbi, who rejects the Old Testament teaching that God gave the 10 commandments to Moses.

The rabbi, Dr. Louis Jacobs, has been denounced as a heretic by some British Jews and acclaimed by others for his "modern approach" to theology. The storm raging about his head is believed unprecedented in the 300-year history of the Jewish community in this land.

Dr. Jacobs was greeted by a large congregation when he entered the new West End Synagogue as its spiritual leader. Earlier, the chief rabbi of Britain, Dr. Israel Brodie, had vetoed the appointment.

As a result, the Council of the United Synagogue of Britain ordered the removal of the entire elected board of the West End Synagogue.

Dr. Jacobs hit back Friday night with this statement:

"The chief rabbi has refused to allow me to serve as minister because I accept the findings of modern biblical scholarship. "As a rabbi in Israel, responsible by Jewish tradition to God alone and to no other rabbi, I shall of course continue to expound my views, confident that very many thinking Jews in this country and outside it have too much love and respect for Judaism to wish to see it tied to such a theory."

Dr. Jacobs does not accept what he regards as the medieval view that the five books of Moses in the Old Testament were dictated by God to Moses.

He believes that modern scholarship has shown that the five books must be viewed as the result of a long process of development in which different human beings played a part.

Pickaway Grange

SALT CREEK
Saltcreek Valley Grange met April 21 in regular session with Worthy Master Russell Miller presiding.

During the business session, initial procedure was begun on three facets of community service: — a clock for the school assembly room, shrubbery to beautify the school lawn, and the assignment of mail box numbers for farms for use in reporting fires and such.

An appeal for aid was read for a member of Athens Grange and the members voted to contribute.

Mrs. Judson Beougher, home economics chairman, expressed appreciation for cooperation with the luncheon for the County Home Economics in Extension Assn. Another meal project will be discussed at the May 5 session.

There was a presentation of the plans for promoting the downtown theater project for Circleville.

The program for the evening was designed to show why one should use precaution with signatures and should be more aware of the location and names of all the United States of America.

Members were reminded the next Pomona Grange meeting will be the evening of May 1.

Steel Union Aims Again At Armco

CINCINNATI (AP)—The United Steelworkers Union says it is making another bid to organize the employees of Armco Steel Corp. at Middletown and Hamilton, Ohio.

Al Whitehouse, a district director of the union, admitted today past attempts to win bargaining rights for the 5,810 workers have failed, but said he felt the next collective bargaining election will end differently. The Steelworkers filed a petition for the election Friday with the National Labor Relations Board here.

The workers are now represented by the Armco Employees Independent Federation whose most recent election victory was in 1962. Employees at several other Armco plants are represented by the Steelworkers.

A Close Call

If an unidentified Cuban refugee who talked to a newspaper in Halifax can be believed, a group of actors recently tried to do away with Fidel Castro in a most novel sort of way.

He said the actors and television technicians planned to execute the Cuban dictator March 13 on a television program in Havana. A high voltage cable was to be connected to microphones used by Castro. The actors planned to throw a switch as soon as the bearded one touched the microphones.

There is no doubt that Castro would have got quite a charge out of the plot. But it did not work. According to the refugee, two of the plotters were members of Castro's secret service, and they, of course, spilled the beans.

The result was that Castro claimed the plotters were bad actors and had them executed.

He thus gave up a great opportunity to become the television star of the century.

The Business World

By JACK LEFLER

AP Business News Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—Conventions are big business and the scramble to get them is becoming fiercer.

Some cities long since became convention-minded and have profited. Others are belatedly trying to get into the swim.

New York City last year played host to 800 conventions which spent an estimated $250 million.

Competition to attract conventions is keen among cities which recognize the potential financial rewards from housing and entertaining convention delegates.

Many cities have organized special visitors and convention bureaus to meet the competition and assist in promoting this lucrative trade.

Winning out as the convention site, however, is only the first step.

A city must offer first-rate accommodations, facilities to handle big crowds such as adequate transportation, banquet halls, restaurants and an easily accessible location.

For example, New York City in the last four years has added 12,000 new rooms to its already numerous housing accommodations.

Other cities such as Atlantic City, Chicago, Philadelphia and Los Angeles have not stood still. Construction of large capacity convention halls, additional housing and eating facilities have helped promote them as convention locations.

Convention delegates spread their money widely. The New York Convention and Visitors Bureau calculates that the average convention delegate spends his money this way:

Hotel rooms, 30 per cent; restaurants, 24 per cent; beverages, 5 per cent; retail stores, 18 per cent; local transportation, 4 per cent; night clubs, 5 per cent; gasoline, oil and automobile service, 1 per cent; theaters, movies and sightseeing, 13 per cent.

While only a relatively few cities are able to take care of huge conventions which draw thousands of delegates, many smaller cities are adding to their business firms' revenues by actively going after regional gatherings.

LAFF-A-DAY

"How many times have I told you not to touch things?"

Speaking of YOUR HEALTH...

By LESTER L. COLEMAN, M.D.

It is a deplorable reflection on our civilized, educated society that there are still evidences of discrimination against epileptics. They are often denied jobs and admission to schools and colleges. And in some states they are even denied the right to marry and have a family, even though there is no evidence that epilepsy is inherited.

Epilepsy has always been encased in a confusing array of myths, superstitions and prejudice. Recently, epilepsy was catapulted into prominence by its involvement in the legal aspects of criminal judgment.

Thousands of serviceable human beings have some form of epilepsy. It would be catastrophic to identify criminality or mental disease with this illness. It must be emphasized that epilepsy does not indicate a mental disorder, mental retardation or any form of insanity. Epilepsy itself produces no criminal inclination or tendency towards physical violence.

It is a totally physical disorder and potentially dangerous only to the sufferer.

Why, then, do we unjustly persecute normal, healthy, well-balanced, productive people who happen to suffer from the controllable illness of epilepsy?

Epilepsy is a disorder which interferes with or disturbs the electric impulses of the brain. The name is derived from the Greek word for "seizure."

There are many different types of epilepsy. A "petit mal," or small seizure, is relatively mild. These attacks usually last for only a few seconds and rarely interfere with normal growth and productivity.

The "grand mal," or large seizure, is more dramatic and more alarming to observers. This form of epilepsy calls forth the sympathetic help of onlookers who quickly come to the support of even total strangers when an attack occurs.

Another type of seizure is the psychomotor form characterized by brief periods of peculiar and unexplained behavior, often with odd, purposeless and even bizarre attitudes.

Few medical conditions are as gratifyingly controlled as are epileptic seizures and convulsions. Seizures can be completely prevented in 50 per cent of epileptics, and almost totally controlled in another 30 per cent. Some epileptics under constant medical guidance may never, ever again experience another seizure.

Epileptics have conquered their handicap and have learned to live in dignity as creative members of society.

Society's attitudes about epileptics must not be returned to "Dark Age" misconceptions. Highlighting epilepsy and deliberately associating it with criminals and acts of uncontrollable violence can do immeasurable damage to a courageous segment of our society.

'Third Course' Thinking

By John Chamberlain

Ever since President de Gaulle recognized the independence of Algeria, North African Moslems have been moving into France by the thousands in search of jobs. The influx has become so burdensome to the French economy that Paris has had to apply a quota system to the number of Algerians that it is willing to accept each month. Thus freedom loses another battle, if the right to move is still considered a freedom in these days when Humpty Dumpty is revered as a greater authority on the dictionary than Noah Webster.

There is a great sadness about all this, for if the world had only not hardened into an ideological mold along toward the end of World War II Algerians would not now be dependent on getting out of their country in order to make a living. The real lack of flexibility in thinking came about when the "liberals" took over the Leninist theory that every little colonial area had to have a national - cum - socialist revolution of its own. We needed a Senator Fulbright — a different sort of Fulbright, of course, one who could be really flexible — to suggest back in 1945 that the problems of the backward areas might be solved by getting outside the standard formula for decolonializing a country.

In the case of Algeria, the French writer, Albert Camus, had a "third course" idea for French North African territory. As a native of Algeria, Camus loved his original homeland. His proposal was that Algerians, both Moslems and French, experiment with two separate legislatures, one for the French "colons," and the other for the original native North Africans. Each legislature would have been empowered to deal with subjects appropriate to its own interests.

When common action, however, was indicated, the two legislatures would have been called upon to thrash things out, much as the U. S. Senate and House of Representatives do when they meet in joint committee for final consideration of a bill. The Camus idea would have given Moslems and French in North Africa the equivalent of the old John C. Calhoun "concurrent veto." And the two communities, free to agree or disagree, would have remained constituent parts of metropolitan France, with all the economic benefits that such membership would have conveyed to them.

Whether the Camus idea would have worked is a question, of course. But it could hardly have been more disastrous to individual Moslems in Algeria than the rule of Ben Bella.

In the case of U. S.-owned

Puerto Rico, a "third course" has worked far better than any standard decolonialization of that Spanish-speaking island would have worked. While Haiti, which has been free ever since Napoleonic times, is a prime example of what nationalist decolonization can do to wreck a country, Puerto Rico has prospered by seeking freedom under the U. S. flag.

If the Leninist stereotype had not been so compelling back in 1945, the various African nations might have taken the road of Puerto Rico. The capacious tent of federalism might have been extended to include the Belgian Congo and Belgium itself in a pattern of freedom that would not have had any of the drawbacks that a complete separation of the two countries entailed.

It is still not too late for the world to seek a "third course" for Portugal's African colonies of Angola and Mozambique. If the UN would only take the Fulbright call for flexibility in thinking to its heart, it might bring acceptable counsel to bear on Portugal that would end by giving Angola and Mozambique the benefits of freedom under federalism.

The trouble with freedom under nationalism as against freedom under federalism is that it cannot reap the economic advantages that go with larger political units. Nor can citizens of the new nation states depend on their governments for the protection of individual, as contrasted with group, rights.

We need a revival of "third course" thinking before the whole world is lost. The Algerians who cannot live at home and cannot count on getting jobs in France know all about it.

Arbor Day Observed by Grade Schools

Special observance of Arbor Day was held at Nicholas Drive and Franklin-Mound Elementary schools. Students took part in ceremonies Friday on the school lawn which was highlighted by the planting of a young tree.

At Franklin - Mound, teachers and students participated in planting a rosebud tree. The event took place in front of the Mound Street building.

Miss Amy Miga and Miss Joyce Thompson served as a committee for the program and planting. Gary Dumm read the history of Arbor Day informing the assembly that the day was first observed in Nebraska due to the state's scanty woodland.

PLANTING of the tree was done by Warren Spangler and Ben Fout, both sixth grade students. The program was closed with group singing of "America."

The program at Nicholas Drive consisted of several readings including the famed poem "Trees" read by Martha Lasoski; Karen Matesky gave a brief history of the observance; Anna Marie Lasoski read an article on trees; and the program was closed with group singing of "America, the Beautiful".

Mark Nichols served as master of ceremonies for the program. Planting the tree were Larry Webb, Sammy Stonerock, Randy Young and Carol Strome.

Racists End Boycott of 2 Stores

CLEVELAND (AP) — The United Freedom Movement (UFM) says its boycott of two downtown department stores has ended but it will continue to boycott the Cleveland Press.

Harold Williams, executive secretary of the Cleveland chapter of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, said Sunday night the UFM voted that "all withholding of patronage from the May Co. and the Higbee Co. has been suspended as well as picketing and related activities."

Williams said the boycott that began against the two stores April 14 was called off because business community leaders at a recent meeting showed "some interest in civil rights."

The boycott against the Cleveland Press, which began at the same time, "will continue in force indefinitely," Williams added.

Civil rights leaders accused the Press of supporting the school board in its rejection earlier this month of a true agreement which did not materialize. It called for a two-week halt to demonstrations and the suspension of construction at dispute school sites pending further study of the issues.

The World Today

WASHINGTON (AP) — This year time is on the side of those opposing a constitutional change to undo the Supreme Court's ban on Bible reading or prayers as a religious exercise in public schools.

The big House push to make this change—there are 146 proposed changes—is coming late in 1964, perhaps much too late. The leader of it, Rep. Frank J. Becker, R-N.Y., is a little gloomy about it himself.

Even if the elections weren't coming up, this is a sore subject. With House and Senate members anxious to go home to campaign, much will be left undone in the rush to get away. That would be true in any election year.

But in this one the Senate's Southern filibuster, which has lasted weeks and will go on more weeks, will leave unfinished business piled up this summer.

In 1962 the Supreme Court held that a state may not compose and prescribe a form of prayer to be recited daily at the opening of its public schools. The court got an angry reaction to this one. But it was unheeded.

In 1963 the court went further by holding a state or city cannot require the Bible to be read, even without comment, or the Lord's Prayer to be recited each day at the opening of its public schools.

Criticism thundered over the court—the cry went up: "Are we to become godless like Russia?"—but the justices pointed out they were simply trying to make sure there would be no violation of the Constitution's First Amendment.

This was the court's position: the First Amendment requires government to maintain strict neutrality, neither aiding nor opposing religion. It says: "Congress shall make no law respecting establishment of religion or prohibiting the free exercise thereof."

The court has been attacked from the beginning of its history, although perhaps never more so than on its Bible-prayer decision, and with various results.

Right now there are wide divisions on the court's Bible-prayer er rulings for any attempt to amend the Constitution to give government approval to Bible reading instantly raises questions.

This is the amendment Becker proposed: "Nothing in this Constitution shall be deemed to prohibit the offering, reading from, or listening to prayers or biblical scriptures, if participation therein is on a voluntary basis, if any governmental or public school, institution or place."

An idea of some church opinion is given by this: The Becker amendment has been opposed by a group of Maryland clergymen from Presbyterian, Episcopal, Methodist and Baptist churches, the United Church of Christ, Seventh-day Adventists, Society of Friends and the Jewish faith.

They said the First Amendment as it stands, barring Congress from making any law affecting the establishment of religion, would be weakened by the proposed change.

Dear Abby: Think Nine Times!

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: When I was 17 I married a man I did not love just to get away from my mother. I thought I would learn to love him, but now I know that I never will. Believe me, I have tried. I will be 30 years old tomorrow and I have nine children. I just can't stand my husband any more. He isn't mean to me or anything like that, but he is such a pest. I can't explain how hard it is to live with someone you don't love. (Do I make myself clear?) I can't just leave with no excuse, and I can't think of any good grounds for divorce. Is there an answer?

DEAR ABBY: Have a talk with your clergyman, or a marriage counselor. They will give you a refresher course in how to make a go of a marriage you have become bored with. I can think of nine good reasons why you should. (Do I make myself clear?)

DEAR ABBY: One day after school my girl friend and I were standing around in front of the school talking to a bunch of boys. All of a sudden one of the boys said something real dirty. I was so embarrassed I didn't know what to say so I just ignored it. My brother (he's a senior) was standing there at the time and he didn't say a word. Later I asked him why he didn't say something to the boy who used the dirty language in front of me, and he said it wasn't his place to say anything. I should have stood up for myself. I always thought a girl's brother was supposed to see that his sister was treated with respect. Or am I mistaken?

FRESHMAN DEAR ABBY: You are not mistaken. Your brother surely must have known better. Color him yellow.

DEAR ABBY: Our daughter is planning to be married this summer. She has always wanted a large church wedding with a white gown, attendants, etc. The young man she is marrying was married briefly a few years ago, but his wife died. He is from out of state, and no one who will attend our wedding attended his first, excepting, of course his immediate family. A friend told me that it would show very poor taste for my daughter to have a big, elaborate wedding, with all the trimmings, when the groom has already been through one. Is this true?

MOTHER DEAR MOTHER: No. Your daughter may have the kind of wedding she wants. The only poor taste I can see here was shown by your "friend" for presuming to advise without knowing the facts.

CONFIDENTIAL TO W.W.: "He that would have a short Lent, let him borrow money to be repaid at Easter."

Tiger Golfers Top Cavaliers, 15½-1½

The Circleville High School golfers defeated Chillicothe's high school linksmen, 15½-1½ in match play Saturday on the Chillicothe Country Club course. The Red and Black team was paced by Bruce Helwagen's one over par 39-34-73. The Tiger lead golfer carded a 39 on his first nine and then came back with a 34 — two under par — on the second nine. Helwagen included two birdies and an eagle in his performance.

Tiger Junior High Is 4th At Greenfield

Circleville's junior high track team placed fourth in the 16-team Greenfield Relays, Saturday, scoring 15 points.

Upper Arlington Jones School headed the field with 52 points, Xenia Wodrow Wilson was second with 30 points, and South-eastern was third with 19.

Steve Dade took first in the 120-yard low hurdles with a record breaking time of 16.3 seconds. He also earned a second in the broad jump with a leap of 18 feet 4 inches. This was a new Circleville school record. Bob Walisa was third in the high jump and his effort of 5 feet 1-inch was also a school record.

Tom Wright was third in the 880-yard run. He was first in the slowest of the two heats in the event.

Marilynn Smith Wins Big Tourney

AUGUSTA, Ga. (AP) — Nice guys, or girls, don't always finish last. Sometimes they win.

Take the case of Marilyn Smith. The 35-year-old golfer, known as "Miss Sunshine" because of her bright smile and friendly attitude on the women's tour, rewrote the record book in winning her second straight Titleholders Championship Sunday at the 6,300-yard Augusta Country Club course.

She finished with a one over par 72-hole total of 289, two strokes better than the four-round tournament record set by Patty Berg of St. Andrews, Ill., in 1955. Miss Smith also set the 18,36 and 54-hole and back nine record for the tournament in four days of what she called "the greatest golfing week of my life." The victory earned $1,300.

Columbus, Leafs Tied at 2nd in IL

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
First baseman Larry Osborne struck two blows Sunday that pulled Toronto from seventh place in the International League standings to a tie for second.

His 10th inning double and a first inning home runs gave Toronto a 5-4 and 2-0 sweep of a doubleheader with Richmond, shoving the Virginians into seventh place.

Columbus also swept a doubleheader 12-6 and 7-4 from Buffalo to move into the tie with the Leafs for second. Front-running Syracuse won a single game from Jacksonville 2-0. Rain washed out a Rochester-Atlanta doubleheader.

Celtics Win Crown Again

6th Straight Title Is Unprecedented

BOSTON (AP)—"This has to be the best Celtics' team of all." Thus, Bill Russell summed up Boston's unprecedented sixth straight National Basketball Association championship and seventh in eight years.

After the Celtics defeated San Francisco 105-99 Sunday night, the big center heaved a sigh of relief in a jubilant dressing room, put one giant sneaker on the bench and beamed.

"The league was tougher this year so we had to be better to win," Russell said. "No one can tell me San Francisco isn't a great team. We all know Cincinnati was terrific. Boston had to be something special."

No team in professional sports ever had won six straight playoff titles before. The Celtics had been tied at the previous record of five with the New York Yankees' World Series kings of 1949-53 and Montreal's Stanley Cup hockey champs, 1956-60.

Boston lost the lead it had held since the second period early in the final quarter against the persistent Warriors, then regained the edge. Retiring co-capt. Frank Ramsey got the winning point on a free throw to make the score 100-92.

But Wilt Chamberlain cut the lead to two points, 101-99, with 19 seconds left. Russell dunked a Tommy Heinsohn miss with 12 seconds left to settle the issue.

Russell played the full 48 minutes, had 26 rebounds, 14 points and six assists. Heinsohn scored 19 while Ramsey had 18.

Chamberlain got 30 points, 18 in the second half, and scrappy, little Guy Rodgers had 19.

5 SVC Schools Are Slated For 3rd Annual Track Meet

CHILLICOTHE — Five of the six Scioto Valley Conference members will participate in the third annual conference track and field meet tomorrow in Chillicothe at Hernstein Field.

Entered in the meet are defending champion Piketon, Union, Logan Elm, Paint Valley and Westfall (Williamsport), a new member. Laurelville did not enter a team.

Based on performances so far this spring, Piketon and Union are the co-favorites. The Shermans, who won the first SVC meet at Piketon in 1962, nipped Piketon by several points in a dual meet last week.

Piketon's brilliant Harry Rittenour, a double winner last year, looks like a good bet to capture the 100 and 220 yard dashes in addition to the broad jump. Rittenour, a senior, won the 100 and broad jump last year while finishing second to Paint Valley's George Burke in the 220.

Burke returns for another try and he should give Rittenour plenty of competition.

Union's Jim King heads the list of field men in the shot put and discus. The only other defending individual champion returning is Paint Valley's Bob Kinnamon in the mile run.

The meet starts at 4:30 with preliminaries with the finals at 7:30. Rain date is Wednesday.

The meet records:

(Amended Senate Joint Resolution No. 53)

JOINT RESOLUTION
Proposing to amend Article VIII of the Constitution of the State of Ohio to authorize the issuance of bonds or other obligations up to five hundred million dollars, the proceeds thereof to be used to provide adequate highways in Ohio.

Whereas, in order to continue the economic development of this state it is necessary to advance the completion of the major highway system without increasing the burden on the taxpayers of the state, and

Whereas, such completion can be financed from revenues at present rates and without impairing other highway programs

Be it resolved by the General Assembly of the State of Ohio, Three-fifths of the members elected to each house thereof concurring therein, that there shall be submitted to the electors of the State of Ohio, in the manner prescribed by law, at a special election to be held on the first Tuesday after the first Monday in May, 1964, a proposition to amend Article VIII of the Constitution of the State of Ohio by adding thereto a new section as follows:

ARTICLE VIII
Section 32. The state may contract debts not exceeding five hundred million dollars for the purpose of providing for the acquisition of rights-of-way and for construction and reconstruction of highways on the existing highway system and urban extensions thereof. The principal amount of any part of such debt at any time

Rookie Relief Hurler Douses Bosox Threat

Young Kreutzer
Comes Through
For Chicagoans

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

It's a long way in from the bullpen at Chicago's Comiskey Park. Plenty of time for a relief pitcher to size up the situation. And you can bet young Frank Kreutzer was doing some fancy sizing up when White Sox Manager Al Lopez waved him into his fourth big league game.

Lopez, renowned for his handling of pitchers, picked a quite a spot for the rookie left-hander in Sunday's game against Boston. The Red Sox were leading 1-0 in the second inning and the bases were loaded with one out.

All Kreutzer had to worry about was the defending American League batting champ, Carl Yastrzemski, who was the next batter, and the league's leading hitter, Frank Malzone, who was on deck. You could forgive Lopez if he shuddered just a bit.

But the youngster didn't cringe. He fanned Yastrzemski and got Malzone on a grounder. End of threat and start of 5 2-3 innings of airtight relief.

Kreutzer, who won his first big league game, allowed just three hits before leaving for a pinch hitter in the seventh. He fanned four.

Elsewhere in the American League, the struggling Yankees finally reached the 500 level with a 5-4 victory over Baltimore; Minnesota nipped Detroit 3-2 in 11 innings; Los Angeles snapped a five game Cleveland winning streak 7-0 and Washington downed Kansas City 7-4.

In the National League, Los Angeles edged Milwaukee 1-0; Houston whipped St. Louis 6-4; Philadelphia whacked Chicago 5-1 and New York and Pittsburgh split a doubleheader with the Pirates taking the opener 4-3 and the Mets winning the nightcap 3-2. The Giants and the Reds had a doubleheader postponed in Cincinnati because of rain.

The Yankees evened their record on three unearned runs, the final one coming when catcher John Orsino let a Harvey Haddix knuckler get by for a passed ball in the eighth inning. Hal Reniff was the winner in relief of Whitey Ford.

Jerry Lumpe's wild throw with the bases loaded and two out in the 11th inning gave Minnesota its victory. Jim Kaat went the distance to win it. Bob Allison and Jimmie Hall homered for the Twins.

Don Zimmer crashed two home runs and Bill Skowron socked another as Washington built an early lead against Kansas City. Rocky Colavito, Jim Gentile and Manny Jimenez homered for the Athletics.

Fred Newman, who had been sidelined for a month with infected tonsils, blanked the Indians in his first start. Tom Satriano slapped three of 12 Angel hits and drove in three runs as Los Angeles handed Cleveland its first setback since opening day.

Derby Favorite May Get Chance To Run in Mud

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP)—Hill Rise, the 8-5 favorite to win the Kentucky Derby, never has had a race in the mud, but it looks as if he will get his chance to see what he can do on an off track in Tuesday's Derby Trial Stakes.

The El Peco Ranch colt is expected to meet six or seven other Derby hopefuls in the one-mile trial—the last prep for Saturday's $125,000-added Run for the Roses.

The Trial should prove a real test for the impressive California campaigner if the track is off—and the Weather Bureau said showers which began falling in Louisville Sunday would continue through tonight.

There's no chance for Hill Rise to duck the Derby Trial if the track is off because he has had but one race in the last two months, and was an unimpressive and sluggish winner in that one.

Bill Finnegan, the ageless trainer of Hill Rise, points out that he's been so lucky so far that he has no idea what his colt can do in the mud.
